

PREPARE TO PUNGE

The Tax Collector Is Abroad in the Land.

NEW SCHEDULE OF LICENSES

Cigarettes Will Be Expensive—Everybody Is Caught and None Will Escape—One Dollar Extra on All.

The new license law which went into effect on Monday will regulate the licenses which are now being collected by Deputy License Collector F. M. Fox of this city. The changes are many under the law, which has raised the fees to be paid by all merchants and in addition to the increased license charges a treasurer's fee of $1 each on all licenses issued. This fee, while it is called the treasurer's fee, is that in name only, for the treasurer does not get it, but the extra dollar goes to the county funds.

The round-up will be begun to-day, so all business men must prepare to punge and do it quick. Bankers and brokers do not escape the collector now, photographers, professional men and insurance agents are all caught in the revenue drag net.

Cigarettes are under a heavy ban, and most of the dealers in coffee halls will retire from their stock. The law says "Every person or persons who are engaged in the business of selling cigarettes, cigarette paper or material used in making cigarettes, except tobacco, shall pay a license of $10 per month in addition to any other license herein provided for."

Auctioneers are divided into nine classes, graded from those whose monthly sales amount to $100,000 and upwards with a license of $400 per quarter, to those whose sales are less than $500 per month, at $5 per quarter.

Banks and brokers are made in six classes, ranging from those doing business in the aggregate of $250,000 per quarter and over, license $100 per quarter; $50,000 per quarter, license $15 per quarter; $5,000 per quarter pay $10 per quarter.

Billiard tables cost $7.50 per quarter; theaters, $5 per day; variety shows and concerts, $75 per quarter; circus and menagerie, $250 per quarter; no license must be collected from any amateur exhibition or concert for school or charitable purposes. Pawn brokers pay $55 per quarter; intelligence offices, $10; shooting gallery, $15.

Saloons in all cities containing a population of 10,000 or over, are assessed $300 semi-annually; in cities under 10,000 and over 5,000, which catches Anaconda thirteenth shops, $250 semi-annually; in towns under 5,000 and over 1,000, $240 semi-annually; in cities under 1,000 and over 300, $200 semi-annually.

The next section makes a clean sweep of those who sell goods, wares or merchandise, liquors or wines, dries, jewelry, butchers, etc., and lists them according to their monthly sales, ranging from $100,000 to less than $400 per month. The highest license is $75 per month, the lowest $1 per month. Oleomargarine dealers must pay 10 cents per pound tax; public scales are taxed $10 per year; warehouses $10 per quarter.

The licenses to peddlars are for packs, $12.50 per quarter; for one horse and cart, $20; for two horses and cart, $30. Market gardeners are not included.

Pools at races cost the seller $25 for each day on which pools are sold. Professional men are assessed $5 per quarter; livery stables, from $5 to $15 per quarter, according to population. In Anaconda it will be $15. Restaurants and hotels pay $5 per quarter for each $2,000 worth of business done. All street car lines are assessed $50 per quarter; gas, water and light companies are assessed $100 per year, on a graded scale.

Judge Fox starts on the war path to-day, and for the next few days will be the most unpopular man in Anaconda.

WOMEN IN COURT.

Judge Fitzgerald Hears Their Woes and Sorrows.

Ladies' day in police court yesterday made the session interesting to the usual audience. Mrs. Fisher, who was accused by Mrs. Gerie Bladen, of hitting her with a rock, was found guilty and fined $10 and costs. Mrs. Bladen had the wound on her head and the rock with which it was made, in evidence. The immediate cause of the disturbance was the use of unparliamentary language between the women who live in the Red Row, on the east end of town. The cause of the lack of harmony, strange to say, is a pair of peaceful doves over which the children quarreled. Then their mothers took it up. Neither of them could talk English, and interpreters told their tales to the court.

Mrs. Fisher is a washerwoman, and supports two children. She was recently deserted by her husband, and says she has no money. Judge Fitzgerald told her she must raise it or go to jail, but he would give her time to do so, and she was allowed to depart on her own recognizance.

The next case was that of Mrs. Margaret Montgomery, from the valley, who was arrested on the complaint of her brother, William Martin, for charging her with defaming his wife's character. Mrs. Montgomery makes counter charges against William and asked for time to secure witnesses, which was allowed, although his honor gave her some good advice, and told her that she and her brother should settle their quarrels out of court if possible.

THROUGH A WINDOW PANE.

It Cost $12, but the Dog Jumped to Liberty.

More excitement centered in MacCallum & Cloutier's store yesterday than on any day since the opening. The cause was a dog fight. The company dog Dash had been decorated with a red and purple ink advertisement and is very proud of it. This sign has been an eye-sore to a yellow dog that has been hanging around a rival grocery and whenever Dash and Yellow Dog meet there is trouble.

Yesterday it is supposed they had a more exciting debate on the merits of their respective houses than usual, for Yellow Dog was madder than ever, and he followed Dash into the home store. This was more than any self-respecting dog could stand and a fight to the finish began. Yellow Dog was bent on defeating that purple and red sign, and Dash growled, bit, scratched, and chewed in defense of it. The air was filled with yelps, dog hair and blood. A pile of canned goods came down lower than ever with a crash. The lady cashier screamed and threatened to faint. Then Cloutier and the clerks took a hand. Dash was pulled off by the collar, and Yellow Dog seeing he was outnumbered fled precipitately. In his haste he rushed into the front office instead of out the door. Bookkeeper Lewis jerked his legs higher up on the stool as the canine rushed about. Mr. Cloutier came to the door and yelled: "Get out!" and with a howl of terror, the pup leaped against a $12 window pane and smashed through it to the sidewalk. The crowd rushed to the doors expecting to find a dog's mangled carcass, but no, up the street there was a yellow streak in the atmosphere and a cloud of dust in which the Yellow Dog disappeared.

Duncan, it is alleged, sold his property and was attempting to leave the city without a settlement with his creditors and with $240 entrusted to his care to pay their lawyer by a company of his neighbors engaged in a law suit. Officers were watching the train, but it is said that Duncan pulled out overland with a team, thinking thus to escape, but his neighbors were alert and think they will succeed in catching him to-day.

CHANGED THEIR MINDS.

Shooters From Across the Range Decide They Are Satisfied.

The Phillipsburg shooters have withdrawn their proposition to shoot any two members of the Anaconda Rod and Gun club for $50. The gun club took up the challenge which came to this city in a private letter in a hurry and promised a match for any team that the "Burg" would send. C. E. Hymer, who issued the proposition for himself and William Uen, were expected to name the conditions, but the conditions did not come. So yesterday C. A. Tuttle called upon Mr. Uen and asked him about the challenge.

"Oh, that's only a joke," said the telephone. "We are perfectly well satisfied with the Anaconda tournament; don't care to shoot birds, blue rocks or anything else, for $50. No, not with Anaconda, thank you. You are all right, but we have quit. We never did any shooting."

"You don't, eh? Well, well; that's too bad. We hoped you would come over. We'd like to shoot at anything you like," said Anaconda.

"Oh, we know that, but we have gone out of the biz over here; couldn't think of it."

"All right. That's all," and Mr. Tuttle chuckled in the transmitter of the phone, paid 25 cents for the message, and laughs yet when he tells the gun club what became of the Phillipsburg challenge.
